

WOMEN'S LEADERSHIP DEVELOPMENT CERTIFICATE LAUNCHING FALL 2020

Over the past several decades, women have made dramatic progress in academic achievements as well as their representation in the paid workforce. Despite this progress, women are vastly underrepresented in the top leadership positions across all industries and organizations, and a persistent earnings gap exists.

In keeping with its mission to foster women's advancement, Villanova University's Anne Welsh McNulty Institute for Women's Leadership, in partnership with the College of Professional Studies, offers a leadership development certificate geared towards "women in the middle." The program builds on the participants' experiences and interests to develop their leadership skills, and form their own unique path to leadership in career, community, or other spheres of influence.

VILLANOVA
UNIVERSITY

College of Professional Studies

VILLANOVA UNIVERSITY

Anne Welsh McNulty
INSTITUTE FOR WOMEN'S LEADERSHIP

What You Will Learn

- Advance yourself and others as leaders in personal, professional and community life
- Identify ways to increase emotional intelligence, mindfulness and to develop growth potential
- Improve competencies in systems management, innovation, organizational development, communication and interprofessional relationships
- Understand how gender and other identities impact leadership development in organizations and society
- Create a personal leadership development plan
- Leverage new communication and leadership skills to empower yourself and others to enact social change

Program Structure and Fall 2020 Schedule

Running over three months, the Leadership Development Certificate program includes a combination of three in-person residencies at The Inn at Villanova, as well as online work.

Each residency focuses on a different theme:

Exploring Your Unique Context | October 9-10

Building Knowledge and Leadership Skills | November 13-14

Designing Your Path | December 11-12

The online components of the program, completed in the weeks prior to and between the residency experiences, focus on identifying individual strengths and talents, reinforcing theoretical content, and participating in peer group coaching.

Your Investment | $6,500

Program tuition includes room and board at The Inn at Villanova.

Apply on or before June 1, 2020 to receive a 10% discount!

Visit cps.villanova.edu/leadershipdevelopment or call 610-519-4300 for more information.